What are you doing New Year's?
If you haven't made any plans yet, here are some suggestions from nearby entertainment spots for an evening of fun, depending on what individuals like to do to welcome the New Year.

Gala New Year's Eve party plans are being made at the Palms, 1925 W. Carson St., Torrance, according to Managers Ray Bell and Peggy Delaney. Music by the Wayne Trenholm trio will be featured and everyone will be treated to noisemakers, hats, balloons, and prizes. The managers promised everyone a good time.

At the Pen and Quill, on Sepulveda Blvd. in Manhattan Beach, two combos will play for dancing pleasure of New Year's Eve patrons, according to Bob Reuben, manager. There will be dancing to the music of Don Anderson and his band, as well as entertainment by the different Don Seats' trio.

To allow employees to spend New Year's with their families, the popular spot will be closed Tuesday, Jan. 1.

At the BBQ Pete Restaurant, a special New Year's dinner will be served, according to Pete and Anne Petroff, hosts at the popular eating place. Barbecued ribs and chicken will be the entrees for the day. The Petroffs announced that they are now members of the Diner's Club and the usual courtesies of the club will be extended to members.

Anyone who is looking for real Italian food on New Year's might check Joe Scarpellino's Pizza House on W. Manchester Blvd., Inglewood.

Joe brags of his Italian dinners and his specialty is pizza. Anybody who is having a party also can contact Joe, who will prepare it for order in any quantity.

Bob and Claire Smith of Smith's Steak House will celebrate their first New Year's Eve in their new place. They will have hats, noisemakers, the usual good food, and music supplied by Lou Sanders.

"Pleasant surprises" are planned for customers at The Cavalier on Manchester Blvd. at Airport Dr., according to the hosts, Earl and Frank.

Chuckwagon dinners will be served, and at the piano bar Jerry Gray will take charge of the music.

At the Caribbean Restaurant John Alexander has slated Jimmy Sheldon and his orchestra for dancing pleasure, with Tanya, a top singer in New York and Paris, doing vocal honors.

The Calypso Floor Show will be presented in the Calypso Room and will be top-notch, according to Alexander.

The special menu will feature filet mignon, turkey, and lobster dinners, prepared by master chefs from France and Italy.

The evening will run from $12 per person in the main dining room to $15 per person in the Calypso Room.

After a hectic New Year's Eve, why not enjoy a real Chinese or American dinner amidst peaceful surroundings at the Good Earth Restaurant, Redondo Beach, at regular prices from noon to 10 p.m. Top-notch service is promised by Harry the genial manager.

The Bob Braman Trio will make a return visit to the Buggy Whip, where he was working at the time he won fame on the Arthur Godfrey Talent Scout Show.

According to Dick and Marie Peterson, owners, the trio has just returned from Hawaii.

Favors and hats will be provided and there will be no minimum or cover charge.

At Dick Masters' Bali-Hi on Imperial Hwy., the entertainment bill includes the Red Coty Quartet, Madame Sonya "the hostess with the mostest," and Jonny Panchi.

Dean Douglas will hold down the piano bar at the Onyx Club on Manchester Blvd. on New Year's Eve.

Owner Paul Stanza promised a gala evening for all who visit the club, since Douglas makes only rare appearances in this area.
